

Demand for home health workers remains high, and recruiting, retaining and compensating this remote workforce can be expensive and complex.

Home Health providers continue to face many challenges that impact their daily work, including staff shortages, high turnover and complex regulations to maintain. By adapting a better payroll and expense process, workers' needs are met more quickly and providers can turn their focus on their number one priority - ensuring their patients receive the best care.

- Faster, more flexible wage payments for your front lines: Healthcare employees want simplicity, value and flexibility in how they receive their wages. Paycards provide this, and more, by eliminating the hassle, expense and risk of paper check distribution and encashment. Paycards deliver wages quickly and at the cadence employees prefer - including the ability to access accrued wages.
- More access and more control: fund expenses on the fly. Standing on the front-line of care and serving selflessly in troubling times is a commitment to the organization and patients alike. Why encumber them with a burdensome expense-then-reimburse process or expose your organization to relying on cash-on-hand. Move funds quickly to those that need
- Recruit and retain talent with timely rewards. Your top performers should be a top referral source for new talent. Reward them for helping you build the right team or for their exceptional above and beyond performance using single load cards for spot recognition or reloadable cards as your "thank you" currency.
